

ABSTRACT

A system and method for voicemail processing which allows a user to easily gist, browser and search through voicemail messages. Each voicemail messages may be transcribed and then indexed for subsequent information retrieval. A user interface provides a user access to information extracted and/or summarized from the voicemail messages. A search mechanism is also provided so that several messages can be searched at one time.